CHARACTERIZATION OF PROCESS PRESSURE SENSOR

ABSTRACT

A pressure sensor of a process device, is characterized by applying a plurality of pressures to the process sensor. Outputs of the plurality of pressures are received. A compensation relationship is determined based upon the pressure sensor output. The characterization data is collected in a distribution which is non-uniform across the pressure range.

10